

DuBarry premiered as the first American-made cosmetic lines. The year was 1903. The DuBarry line was created by Richard Hudnut. Previous to his efforts, all cosmetics and fragrances available in the United States were imported from Europe. Immediately, the DuBarry mystique swept New York society.

Over ninety-five years ago, New York's most prestigious drug stores took a chance on DuBarry. Now there are hundreds of thousands of DuBarry users around the world, and thousands of retail outlets and department stores that carry DuBarry.

The DuBarry line is named after the Comtesse Jeanne duBarry who was known to portray "the essence of femininity."

To those who know and want the very best the DuBarry line represents elegance, beauty, and prestige. It is always available to Belew Drug's discerning customers.
